Aspen goes whole-hog Americana at its Old Fashioned 4th of July Celebration, with a Main Street parade (cue the cowboys!), park-side picnics and a fireworks finale over Aspen Mountain. aspenchamber.org

KEY TO THE CITY

Barbara Glass

Aspen's most prodigious interior designer—queen of classic patterns and rustic elegance—shares the local haunts she can't live without barbaraglassinc.com

NAMASTE, NATURE

Anyone visiting Aspen has the great outdoors on her mind, and what better way to embrace the wilderness than sleeping under the stars? Fortunately, Colorado's mountain towns have perfected the art of glamping. Five-star tents pitched by Collective Retreats (collectiveretreats.com) in Vail (and Aspen in 2018) are outfitted with Turkish towels, robes and other plush amenities. At Carbon-dale's Cedar Ridge Ranch (cedarridgeranch.com), sleep, dine and sip wine on a working farm with views of Mt. Sopris, from your choice of a canvas tent or an exotic yurt. Those who'd rather eat al fresco can arrange for a chef at Elk Camp (aspensnowmass.com) to prepare a private, farm-to-table feast served in the shadow of Snowmass Mountain. If you're seeking tranquility, commune with nature at a Mala Creation and River Blessing, a new program offered by Remède Spa at The St. Regis Aspen Resort (stregisaspen.com). After a one-on-one consultation to set intentions and develop a personal mantra, participants receive custom Mala-bead necklaces before being escorted to the Roaring Fork River for Qigong meditation and a blessing ceremony for their bespoke jewelry.

CUP OF JOE

I love the open kitchen and chic industrial design at Victoria + Co. on Durant Street. You can't beat the café's proximity to the mountain, and its coffee is the best in town. aspenspressobar.com

COCKTAIL HOUR

The Little Nell has an incredible wine list and I can bring my pug Willie into the dog-friendly lounge. thelittlenell.com

RETAIL THERAPY

I always stop into Paris Underground for vintage French furniture, lighting and accessories—every piece is unique. parisunderground.com

FIELD TRIP

Because the Aspen Art Museum is free, it's easy to pop in for a few minutes and visit a single room. If you have time, spend an afternoon on the gorgeous roof deck and lunch at SO Café. aspenartmuseum.org

DATE NIGHT

The Wild Fig's bistro walls and lighting make it intimate and charming at night. I recommend the Fish in a Bag seasoned with herbes de Provence. It's simple and delicious. thewildfig.com

TAKING RESERVATIONS

At Aspen Kitchen, steaks (aged for up to 100 days), suckling pig and regionally sourced fish are just a few standouts on chef Matthew O'Neill's menu. Also try the triple chocolate cookies dipped in Kahlua-spiked milk, served on the patio. kitchenaspen.com

Foodies are abuzz about the influx of newly opened eateries at the quickly expanding Willits Town Center in neighboring Basalt: Market Street Kitchen (marketstreetkitchen.com), featuring French-inspired dishes like crepes and beef bourguignon; Capitol Creek Brewery (capitolcreekbrewery.com), serving beer brewed on-site and elevated bar food and Mezzaluna (mezzalunaaspen.com), the landmark Italian eatery's second location.
